

IRISH HOME RULE WALLY APPROVED BY THE COMMONS

Measure Is Passed for Last
Time and Becomes a Law
Despite the Opposition of House of Lords.

END OF LONG STRUGGLE CAME QUITE SUDDENLY

Unionists Refuse to Debate the Bill—Leader of the Unionists Says an Appeal
Will Be Taken to People.

London, May 25.—By a vote of 311 to 174—a majority of 77—the house of commons this afternoon passed the home rule bill. The end of the hard-fought struggle came quite suddenly, the unionists refusing to debate the bill without further information as to the government's intentions in regard to the proposed amending measure. Premier Asquith lifted a corner of the veil, but though Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, admitted that the premier's words were copulatory, he hastened to add that Mr. Asquith had not told them anything to discuss the third reading under the circumstances, would, he said, be far and distant.

"Let this curtain ring down on this contemptible farce. It is only the end of an act and not of the play. The government can carry the bill through parliament, but the concluding act of the drama will be in the country, where an appeal to the people will not be a farce."

Bill Becomes Law.

Under the provisions of the parliament act, the bill becomes law after this stage, as it had already twice passed through all its stages in the house of commons in two separate sessions.

The house was meeting with excitement from the moment the speaker took the chair. Members of the various parties cheered when their respective champions entered the chamber, while at the same time mocking laughter was shouted from the opposite benches. The Right Hon. James Lowther appealed to the premier to give the house some information regarding the bill to be introduced to amend the measure of the Irish home rule bill for the amendment of the objections of the people of Ulster.

The Amendment.

Premier Asquith announced that the amending bill would give effect to any agreement which the government was able to make with the unionists, but that if at the time of the introduction of the bill no such agreement had been reached, the amending bill would embody the substance of the proposals outlined by Mr. Asquith in his speech on March 3.

On March 3 Premier Asquith told the house that before the bill became operative a poll would be taken of the parliamentary electors of each county of Ulster to decide whether those counties of the Irish home rule bill. The first meeting of the new Irish parliament, in the year 1914, will be in favor of the scheme the county would be excluded from the bill.

The vote was then taken and the amendment of the bill was carried by a great demonstration by the unionists.

The Divisions were Taken Strictly of Party.

The divisions were taken strictly of party. The unionists, who were opposed to the bill, were divided into two groups. The first group, consisting of 174 members, were the unionists who were opposed to the bill. The second group, consisting of 311 members, were the unionists who were in favor of the bill.

Provisions of the Measure.

The Irish home rule bill, which was passed by the commons this afternoon, contains the following provisions:—
A senate of forty members, a house of commons of 144 members, will be elected by the people of Ireland. Irish parliament cannot legislate on matters of military, foreign, or naval policy. The bill also provides for the establishment of a senate of forty members, a house of commons of 144 members, will be elected by the people of Ireland.

Imperial Exchequer to Pay an Annual Sum of £1,000,000.

The bill also provides for the establishment of a senate of forty members, a house of commons of 144 members, will be elected by the people of Ireland.

BURNED BUSINESS BE $200,000 Damage Is Done When Flames Ravage National Stock Cattle Yards—Horses Lost in the Fire.

Isaac Schlen, one of the principal owners of the buildings burned by the fire which destroyed the National stock cattle yards, early Monday morning, stated that the several owners were arranged to rebuild immediately.

"Just as soon as the debris can be cleared away we will begin work on rebuilding," he said.

The fire which destroyed the yards, on Brady avenue, did damage estimated at $200,000.

A tragic feature of the big fire was the roasting alive of fifty fine horses and mules, which were stabled in the challenges to the centuries and the elements, facing forward across the ages with the story of one of the most remarkable events that ever illumined a people's history.

Harper & Weathers commission stables, where the fire originated, supposedly from a spark from a passing train.

The "granite highway" now building between the mountain and Atlanta would be a connecting link, and induce visitors from all civilization.

The suggestion has all the advantages of noble proportions, of original conception. Certainly no cause, lost or living, or held in the crypts of memory, could have a monument boasting such commanding attributes.

The Vice President.

Thomas R. Marshall, vice president of the United States, will today be the guest of Atlanta.

Probably, the vice president of the nation is somewhat obscured by the more constant prominence that hedges his fame.

Few incumbents of recent years have done more than Thomas R. Marshall to lift the office, partially at least, from that status.

This has been accomplished by a characteristic gentleness and a sound good-fellowship, in no sense touching the offensively aggressive.

If one were asked to typify the vice president it would be as a thoroughly representative American, a democrat in the social no less than in the political meaning. He has the knack of "getting on all fours" with the masses, and of appealing in phrases that comprehend those things in life common to the highest as well as the most humble.

These traits he has carried into public life, whether as governor of Indiana or as vice president of the nation. Honest of purpose and firm of principle, his personality is essentially a lovely one.

The Constitution extends Mr. Marshall a hearty welcome to Atlanta and to Georgia.

DR. WILMER MUST SAY.

Every man and woman in Atlanta who has followed even casually the course of civic affairs and organized religion in this community will add sincere testimony to the resolutions in which the wardens and vestry of St. Luke's Episcopal church seek to prevail upon the Rev. Dr. C. R. Wilmer, rector, to reject the call recently tendered him by the South Georgia Synod.

The chair offered Dr. Wilmer is that of systematic theology. Located in the historic institution that supplies ministers to the Episcopal church, the appeal comes with particular force to a man of Dr. Wilmer's temperament. In his statement to his congregation Sunday, he made it clear that while he had the Treasury of the church at his disposal, he was not prepared to give the matter extremely serious consideration.

The constitution does not overlook, nor minimize the fact that Dr. Wilmer is a native son to Seawane. Essentially a student, instinctively a teacher, and, beyond all, militant where the progress and welfare of his church are concerned, it is natural that he should hesitate and be very sure as to where lies the field for greater service, for service is his dominant characteristic.

But the Constitution submits on behalf of all Atlanta, of whatever creed or denomination, that this city cannot afford to lose Dr. Wilmer. In the realm of mind he is an intellectual giant. His faculties are keen as steel, his logic is unassailable, his learning sacred and secular, is profound. He is ripe in the knowledge of the world without which the preacher of today is poorly armed to battle with its problems. His forceful without rant, consecrated without cant. His conquests over human morals and the human conscience are based upon reason, not upon the force of his intellect. His learning is not a mere show, but a living, breathing, and pulsing force, that he has brought to bear upon the problems of his day.

His intellect is not a mere show, but a living, breathing, and pulsing force, that he has brought to bear upon the problems of his day.

Uncle Sam, Not Villa, Carranza Nor Huerta, Holds Key, Says Yeandis

Here is about the most calm and coherent story of the Mexican situation that has come to Atlanta out of that ravaged country. It is the story of a man who has been in the heart of the matter since the revolution broke out in 1910.

The Constitution. Mr. Yeandis ought to know Mexico. He has lived there 16 years. He has seen all the changes that have come about in the country since the revolution broke out in 1910.

He is now in Atlanta visiting his parents. He is a native-born American, and he has been in the heart of the matter since the revolution broke out in 1910.

Fans Change Name of Team in Contest Held by Memphis Paper Recently.

Memphis, Tenn., May 25.—(Special.)—At a contest held in Memphis to chance the name of the Memphis baseball team the words "Chickasaws" were the winning title.

The "Chickasaws" were a tribe of Indians who lived in the Mississippi valley before Memphis was put on the map by Charley Frank, Harry McIntire and others.

We also used to have a ball team here by that name which cleaned up every team in the country.

Chickasaws can be abbreviated to Chicks, and hence will come in very handy in the future. The headline has to be written, and there is very little room left in the column.

CONTEST ON TRACK

Tech High and Boys' High Meet at Grant Field on Wednesday.

What promises to be one of the fiercest contested track meets ever held between two prep schools in Atlanta, will be the one between Tech High and Tech High, which will be held Wednesday afternoon at Grant field.

Both Boys' High and Tech High have excellent track teams this year, and some excellent events will be pulled off by the two teams.

High recently dropped out of the annual prep school meet, and the annual prep track meet.

However, it was decided to arrange a meet between Boys' High and Tech High, as these two schools are very close rivals in athletic affairs.

WIDOW AKES POISON
WHEN KOSSUTH DIES

Son of the Great Hun Patriot Passes in Budapest—Wedded the Widow of Friend.

Budapest, May 25.—Francis Kossuth, son of the great Hungarian patriot, died here today, aged 75. He had been invalid for many months, and his death did not come as a surprise.

Immediately after Kossuth's death his widow attempted to commit suicide by taking poison. Her condition is considered serious.

In January last, during a crisis in his sick bed, and Kossuth and the countess, who intended to marry in March, hastened their nuptials when Kossuth's illness took a turn for the worse.

Francis Kossuth took his father's place as leader of the Hungarian movement after Louis Kossuth died in 1844. Up to the time of his illness Francis Kossuth led his countrymen in their political struggles with vigor and much success. He was at one time the prime minister of Hungary.

Kossuth was born at Budapest on January 18, 1841, and was the oldest son of Louis Kossuth.

At the age of 18 he was taken prisoner by the Austrians, and was kept in England. Young Kossuth was educated at London University college, and returned to Hungary in 1861 as an engineer, attaining much prominence in his profession.

He was one of the leaders of the "young Hungary" movement, and was the first to lead the Hungarian people back to Hungary in 1848.

The funeral was accompanied by unbounded acclamations and by the people.

It was then that he was invited to take his father's place as the Hungarian patriot, and he was accepted, declaring he would work for Hungarian independence.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in April 1894, during the illness of Kossuth, visited him at his home.

BODY OF W. F. GARNER UNCLAIMED AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—Mystery surrounds the identity—except for the name—of W. F. Garner, who was killed by a Central of Georgia passenger train near Watkinsonville yesterday morning. He had papers addressed to him at Round Oak, and there were some indications that he was near High Shoals, in Walton county.

He was struck by the engine as the engine went around a sharp curve in a cut.

"The fact that there is one epileptic to every 400 people making 250,000 so affected in this country, while we are only caring for 1,000, shows the great need of such a campaign."
